At the trial of Queen Caroline, in 1821, the guards of the Tower were doubled; and Col. , the keeper of the regalia, was quartered there with his family. Toward twilight one evening, and before dark, he, his wife, son, and daughter, were sitting listen-mg to the sentiaels, who were singing and answering one another, on the beats above and below. The evening was sultry, and the door stood ajar, when something suddenly rolled in through the open space. Coh S— at first thought it was a cloud of smoke, but it assumed the shape of a pyramid of dark thick gray, with something working toward its centre. Mrs. S — saw a form. Miss

S felt an indiscribable sensation of chill and terror. The son sat at the window, staring at the terrified and agitated party; but saw nothing. Mrs. S threw her head down upon her arms on the table and scream-The Colonel took a chair, and hurled it at the phantom, through which it passed. The cloud seemed to him to revolve round the room, and then disappear, as it came voice, observed, that there was yet one strik-through the door. He had scarcely risen ing feature wanted to complete the characfrom his chair to follow, when he heard a low abriek, and a heavy fall at the bottom of the stair. He stopped to listen, and in a few stes the guard came up and challenged poor sentry, who had been so lately sing. ing, but who now lay at the entrance in a swoon. The sergeant shook him rudely, declared he was asleep at his post, and put him brought to a court-martial, when Col. S—

It When Louis XVIII., at the restoration, past him, and scowled upon him with a human face and the expression of a demon, disappearing over the Barbican. He was so rightened that he became giddy, and knew no more. His story, of course was not credited by his judges: but he was believed to have had an attack of vertigo, and was acwitted and released on Col. 8 -'s evidence. That evening Col. S- went to congratuate the man, but he was so changed that he did not know him. From a glow of rude ealth in his handsome face he had become color of bad mate. Col S-said to him "Why do you look so dejected, my lad? think I have done a great favor in getting you off, and I would advise you in future to ortinue your habit of singing."

"Colonel," replied the sentry," you have saved my character, and I thank you; as for anything else it little signifies. From the moment I saw that infernal demon, I felt I was a dead man !"

He never recovered his spirits, and died next day, forty-eight hours after he had seen the spectre. Col. S-had conversed with the sergeant about it, who quietly replied

What explanation Sir David Brewster h given of this singular apparition, the present writer does not happen to know. We quote it for its strangeness, and leave the reader to make of it what he can. We proceed with a serious instance of mental absence :

Lessing, the German philosopher, being remarkably absent, knocked at his own door one evening, when the servant looking out of the window, and not recognizing him.

" The professor is not at home !" "Oh, very well!" replies Lessing, compo sedly walking away; "I shall call another

There is an anecdote of successful cooless of earlier date, which will serve to acompany the foregoing:

Charles II., after his restoration, appears according to custom, to have neglected his most faithful adherent, Lord St. Albans. who, nevertheless was a frequenter of the court. One day, when a gentleman had requested an interview of his majesty, to ask joy forever ? for a valuable office then vacant, the king, in jest, desired the Earl of St. Albans to personate him, which he did before the whole court; but, after hearing the stranger's petition with an air of dignified authority, he said that the office was, by no means, too great for so deserving a subject. "But," added the Earl, gravely, "I have already conferred it on my faithful adherent, Lord St. Albans, who constantly followed my father's fortunes and my own, having never before received any reward."

The king was so amused by this ready jest that he instantly confirmed the gift to in other words save your pennies, by always his cleaver representative.

But we have yet a cooler thing (though of somewhat different character) than either of the preceding to bring forward, and which, if true, is really one of the strangest incidents that could happen in a man's experi-

Barthe, a writer of French comedies, hear ing that his intimate friend, Colardeau, was on the point of death, instantly hastened to the sick man's chamber, and finding him still in a condition to listen, addressed him thus:

"Consider," replied the dying man, " that have only a few hours to live." "Alas! yes: and this is the very reason that makes me so desirous of knowing what you think of my play." His unhappy friend heard him to the end without saying a word, and then, in a faint

Some people are constitutionally mean we wouldn't be uncharitable, so we will hope that therefore they cannot help it; if they have a person in their power, a good-hearted, generous soul, they will take every advantage of his thoughtlessness. They will reason thus : "Well now, I can get an extra nine pence out of that man; he is fond of spending money, or be would have made his bargain;" and the only regret the wretched sinner will feel for cheating, is that he didn't double the sum. #### FEMALE PIETY.

The gem of all others which most enriches the coronet of the lady's character is unaffected piety. Nature may lavish much on her person, the comeliness of her mien. or the strength of her intellect, yet her loveliness is uncrowned till piety throws around the whole the sweetness and the power of its charms. She then becomes unearthly in her desires and associations. The spell which bound her affections to things below is broken, and she mounts on the silent wings of hope and fancy to the habitation of God, where it is her delight to hold communion with the spirits that have been ransomed from the thraldom of earth, and wreathed with a garland of glory.

Her beauty may throw its magical charm over many; princes and conquerors may bow with admiration at the shrine of her riches; the sons of science and poetry may embalm her memory in history and in song; yet piety must be her ornament, her pearl. With such a treasure, every lofty gratification on earth may be purchased; friendship will be doubly sweet; pain and sorrow shall lose their sting, and the character will possess a price above rubies. Life will be but a pleasant visit to earth, and death an entrance upon joyful and perpetual home.

Such is piety. Like a tender flower, plant d in the fertile soil of a woman's heart, it grows, expanding its foliage, and imparting ts fragrance around, till transplanted, it is set to bloom in perpetual vigor and unfading beauty in the paradise of God.

From an essay on this subject by Mr. Luke Derwin, we take these suggestions : "There is no freeman-too poor to have beautiful home of his own, for it needs not wealth to make it peaceful and happy. God has scattered the means all around us, and a pleasant labor will be sufficient to beautify and adorn it. Spare a little ground around your dwelling for a lawn, trees, and flowers. You can find leisure to plant the trees, and your daughters will, I trust, gladly attend to the vines and flowers. It will take but little time, and once engaged in the work, you will reap rich reward in the labor itself. and feel within you the happy feeling which can only be felt in adorning and making more pleasant your home. True the groun thus devoted might be more useful, in a mere doliar and cent point of view, planted with corn: but if refinement of feeling and increased love of home are any recompense for a few paltry dollars and cents, then this little will pay most usurious interest upon all the capital invested. If keeping your child from vicious influences, and teaching them to love their birth place, and care for its appearance, is aught gained; then richly will be the yearly, yea, and daily return from this small spot !-Gladly as they grow older will they tend, and still more beautify it ;-'Home, Sweet Home,' will ever in their after life exert its purifying influence on their feelings, leading them to toil earnestly to nake for themselves in their second childhood such a sweet resting place as that in which their earlier years were passed.

BORROWED SERMONS.

Some twenty years ago, there lived at Bristol, England, a very able and popular preacher, the Rev. William Thorpe. Commanding in person and manner, with a voice blending the peal of the thunder with the softness of the zephyr, and with a pathos and unction, which, in his best seasons, were almost unrivalled, he was everywhere popular. No man, when he brought out his powers, could make a better sermon; but he was naturally indolent, and having a most extraordinary memory, he never made a secret of the fact that not a few of his sermons were composed by others. The practice placed him, sometimes, in an awkward position, which, however, he occasionally turned to good account. His week-evening sermons were generally ex-tempore, and cost him but a half hour's thought in his vestry, which he usually reached so long before the commencement of the service. One Wednesday evening, on his arrival at church, he found on the table some fifty copies of a printed sermon, sent by a poor neighboring minister for sale. Thorpe sat down, read and admired the sermon, and then went into the pulpit and delivered it. His hearers were delighted, and went almost in crowds into the vestry to express their gratification. The worthy pastor, wishing perhaps to test the sincerity of these compliments, and no doubt desiring to benefit his neighboring brother' said to his people, "Oh yes, the sermon you have heard to-night, was a good sermon, a very good sermon; but do not thank me, for it is none of mine; there it lies printed on the table, pay your shillings and take home the copies, and so refresh your memories. and send a few loaves of bread to the family of its author." We need not add, the sermons were all sold.

When Mr Thorpe was settled in London before he removed to Bristol, he preached from memory the whole six volumes of Saurin's sermons, on successive Sabbath evenings. When he had reached the end, the late Samuel Bagster, the Biblical publisher sent him a handsomely bound copy of Saurin, with a note, kindly hoping that his friend would accept a new copy of Saurin, as he thought the old copy must be worn out .-Thorpe most pleasantly accepted the present, and told Bagster that he hoped he had greatly profited by the labors of the best preacher which France had ever produced.

There lived in Thorpe's day, and we hope yet lives, in a city, ten or twelve miles from Bristol, one of the most popular preachers of the day. He and Thorpe had been engaged to preach on occasion of the dedication of a new church, and travelled a great part of the journey on the day preceding together. On made no preparation for the service, and indeed was not even provided with a text. For this his companion severely blamed him, little thinking of what the result was to be. Arrived at the end of their journey, they were put to sleep in a double-bedded room. In the night, J ____, who was at the time exceedingly careful of his delivery, awoke, and supposing Thorpe to be asleep, he carefully repeated aloud the sermon he had to deliver in the morning. Thorpe lay and heard it, admired it, and formed his plans respecting it. When they arose, he entreated J- to exchange services with him, chiefly pleading that he did not feel quite comfortable. in the idea of following the finished sermon that no doubt J- would deliver in the morning. besides which, by far the largest congregation would be in attendance in the evening. The bait took; J-, the unsuspecting -, gave up, and when he went to the church, it was to listen to his own sermon, prepared with so much care for the evening And what added to his mortification, was that whenever Thorpe had delivered one of the finest passages, he would pause for a moment to look into J---'s face to see how it

This was by no means the only sermon o --- 's that had been stolen from him; infeed, we have heard him say, that in travelling he has sometimes gone into a strange church, and had an opportunity of listening to a stranger of another denomination, delivering, and sometimes murdering one of his own printed sermons; and once introduced himself to one of these preaching thieves, to spoiled his sermon.

On one occasion, a living minister heard plain, practical sermon, which could not well the minister arrived at his home very late in the week, and had not time to prepare two sermons for the Sabbath, he delivered in the evening, entirely from memory, substantially the same sermon he had heard from -. The people did not conceal their dipleasure that he had stolen a sermon from their pastor, who had preached it to them, verbatim, only on the preceding Lord's day evening. The young minister asserted his innocence, but no one believed. He did not feel himself at liberty to state the facts of the case, but determined not to leave the city till Mr. Jed, and some explanation could be given. On the following Lord's day, he adverted in his pulpit to the circumstance, of the same sermon, from the same pulpit, on two successive Sabbath evenings, and added very signifficantly, "it is quite true there was stealing in the case; but my friend did not steal it from me. but I stole it from him. #### STARTING IN THE WORLD.

What a scratching and pushing there is y thousands in the world, to lay up money. And the principal excuse offered is, the wish to give their children a fair start in life. But this is all nonsense. Just as if a young man, roperly instructed and taught to depend on imself, cannot get fairly started without the reasures hoarded by his father. The most wealthy, as well as the most respectable men of all ages, at least a large portion of them, made their way from nothing to affluence and influence, by their own personal exertions: while thousands who had a fortune provided to their hands, having been born with a silver spoon in their mouths, and entirely unaccustomed to labor or to know the value of money, have squandered away in a short time the large property which their

But among us may be found thousands of citizens who hold the very first rank in society, who commenced without a cent to grease their wig. They meant to succeed, and for that they have laid their own plans They drew for success on their own minds and bodies too. And sucess was sure.

You might almost as well set a young nan affoat on a cake of melting ice, to find his way across the ocean, as to turn him adrift in the world, with a bag of money, with which to work his way up. He should first be taught to earn money, and there by learn its value. "What easy comes, easy goes," is a true saying. Parents, therefore ad better use their own money in a way that they know will do good, and speak when they are dead, than to leave it for the injury of their children, when they are gone. I you would give your son "a start in the world," let him start early in life and earn his own bread, and then he will know how to earn it when he is older .- Boston Olive

BATTLE OF THE PYRAMIDS.

Mourad Bey had there assembled the greater part of his Mamelukes, nearly ten thousand in number, for a decisive battle. These proud and powerful horsemen were supported by twenty thousand foot soldiers, strongly entrenched. Napoleon was marching along the Western shore. On the 27th of July, Napoleon, conscious that he was near the city, set his army in motion before the break of day. Just as the sun was rising in those cloudless skies, the soldiers beheld the lofty minarets of the city upon the left, gilded by its rays; and upon the right-upon the borders of the desert, the gigantic pyramids, risless plain. The whole army instinctively halted, and gazed, awe-stricken upon the nonuments of antiquity.

The face of Napoleon beamed with enthusiasm. "Soldiers," he exclaimed, as he rode along the ranks, " from those summi forty centuries contemplate your actions."-The arder of the soldiers was roused to the highest pitch.

Animated by the clangor of the martial bands, and the gleam of flaunting banners, they advanced with impetuous steps to meet their foes. The whole plan before them, at the base of the pyramids, was filled with armed men. The glittering weapons of ten thousand horsemen, in the utmost splender of barbaric chivalry-brilliant plumes-the arms of burnished steel and gold, presented an array equally imposing. Undismayed, the French troops, marshalled into five invincible squares, marched on. There was appacently no alternative.

Napoleon must march upon these entrenchments, behind which twenty-four thousand men were stationed, with their artillery and musketry, to sweep his ranks; and a formidable body of horsemen, on fleet and powerful Arabian steeds, awaiting the onset and ready to seize upon the slightest indication of confusion, to plunge with all the fury which fatalism can inspire upon his bleeding turned out anything but what was really de- and mangled squares. It must have been a on sat upon his horse, in the center of one of the squares, and carefully examined with his telescope the disposition of the enemy, no one could discern the slightest trace of uneasiness. His grave gaze was long and

> The keenness of his scrutiny detected that the guns of the enemy were not mounted upon carriages, and they could not therefore be turned from the direction in which they were placed. No other officer, though many of them had equally good glasses, made this important discovery. He immediately, by a lateral movement, guided his army to the right, towards the pyramids, that his squares might be out of the range of the guns, and that he might attack the enemy in the flank. The moment Mourad Bey perceived this evolution he devined its bject, and with great military sagacity resolved instantly to charge. "You shall now see us," said the proud

Bey, " cut up those dogs like gourds."

It was indeed a fearful spectacle. Ten thousand horsemen, magnificently dressed, with the fleetest steeds in the world, urging their horses with bloody spurs to the onset, rending the heavens with their cries, and causing the earth to tremble beneath the thunder of iron feet, came down upon the adamantine host. Nothing was ever seen in war, more furious than this charge. Ten thousand horsemen is an enormous mass. Those longest innred to danger felt that it was an awful moment. It seemed impossible to resist such an avalanche. The most profound silence reigned through the ranks, interrupted only by the word of command their ntmost tension, every order was executed with the most marvelous precision and and, with bristling bayonets, stood shoulder to shoulder to receive the shock.

The moment the Mamelukes arrived within gun shot, the artillery of the angles plowed their ranks, and platoons of musketry, volley after volley, in a perfectly uninterrupted flow, swept into their faces a pittiless tempest of destruction. Horses and riders, struck by balls, rolled over each other by hundreds in the sand, and were trampled and crushed by the iron hoofs of thousands of frantic steeds, enveloped in dust and smoke, compassing the impetuous column. But the squares stood as firm as the pyramids at whose base they fought. Not one was broken-not one wavered. The daring MameBY C. DAYIS MELTON, Esq.

With the examination in English Grammar onducted by Miss Kellogg, we were equally well pleased. The class was a large one, including in its number many very young members. #### Tennessee Valley Rail Road.

Our correspondent, "Old Chester," whose nication appears in another column, invites the attention of our people to the projected Tennessee Valley Rail Road. This enter prise has been under consideration for some enced the publication of a Series of Popular time, and we have hithorto refrained from adverting to it only from the want of reliable information as to the practicability of its construction. We have, however, recently met, with are issued in excellent style, the paper being of the address of the Committee appointed at a meeting of the Stockholders of the East Ten nessee and Virginia Rail Road, held at Jonesboro', on the 7th April last, in which the importance of a connection with our Rail Road at Charlotte is very ably argued. The Committee urge that this Route very decided advantages over the Rabun Gap Route, not the least of which are that the Road will be much shorter and more easy of construc tion. The matter is certainly worthy the attention of our people, and to the Stockholders of the Charlotte and S. C. Company it presents itself to our mind as of very great importance We append the following extract from the Address referred to :

"There is another and a stronger reas why the people of South Carolina sho the line we propose in preference to the Rabun Gap, which is worthy of their mature deliberawhich it is proposed to extend the connexion by the Rabun Gap, passes by the way of Ab-beville which is only 60 miles from Augusta, the terminus of the Georgia Rail Road, and within 40 miles of the town of Washington, Ga. to which a branch of the Georgia road has be extended. It is not to be supposed that the and seize a portion of the trade pouring through this channel and bear it by the Wainsborough and Augusta Branch road and Central road to her favorite city, Savannah, which it is her avowed policy of building up as the Rival of Charleston. But suppose it was denied; the latter could extend the Washington branch of the Georgia Rail Road and connect with the distance between sixty and seventy mil it would be nearer and more direct to Savannah bia line. Seeing that Georgia will at least di-vide the trade with the marts of North and South Carolina, if the communication with the Ten-nessee valley be made by the Rabun Cap, whilst by the more Eastern route the former will be deprived of any participation except through Charleston or Wilmington, the preference should certainly be given to the Charlotte line, especialwhen it is known this connecting link would e shorter and could be made at a much less cost. The distance from Charlotte, N. C., to the nearest point on the East Tennessee and Virginia Road, could not be more than 140 miles, 100 of which would be in N. ### Examination at Bascomville Seminary

MR EDITOR: There is nothing that speaks well for Chester District as the rapidly in creasing number of her high schools. We have now on the Eastern side of the District, three Female schools of a high order, (in ad lition to the many very excellent Male schools,) all under able, experienced and accomplished instruc tresses, and well sustained in their respective neighborhoods, and within seven or eight miles of each other. What a noble rivalry may be cultivated. Not that rivalry based upon sordid meanness, which characterizes low, bigoted, ignorant minds, but an emulation to excel in do ing good-in diffusing knowledge, expanding the mind and thereby qualifying the rising generation for usefulness and true happiness, the great

I had the pleasure of witnessing an Examination, recently, of the Bascomville Female Seminary, under the direction of Miss F. J. Big-ELOW, assisted by Miss SALLIE E. WHERRY .-It was at the conclusion of the first session of that institution, and I regret that a deficiency of knowledge of such matters, and want of proper language prevent me from doing justice to the subject. The Examination continued for two days, commencing at 9 o'clock, A. M., and ending at 4 o'clock, P. M., with an hour's intermission at noon.

The moral, mental and physical welfare of all who are committed to the care of Miss Bigelow receives a most assidnous attention, and the experiment of building up a Female School of a high order at Bascomville has been entirely suc-

The exercises of the School will be resume on the 14th of June, and the writer of this brief notice would only add that if so much has been accomplished in the first session of a school in the neighborhood, what may be expected from its future operations under the direction of those admirable and accomplished young ladies' Miss F. I do not wish brought into its operation. A road on this line would include in its advantages the Salt Springs of Virginia, the extensive beds of gypsum o plaster, and the coal fields of Kentucky. It is the nearest route, and passes over a country, whose valleys are unsurpassed for fertility, and the broken or mountainous portions affording water power for manufacturing purposes un equalled in any portion of our common country,

Vampires. Not long since, a young girl, eleven years of age, who lived in Paris, attempted to murder her mother, sister, and many of her playmates, for the purpose of drinking their blood. After a careful examination by a scientific man, it was declared that she was subject to the strange and terrible mania of cannibalism. As she was ex-tremely young, this strange perversion of natural instinct afforded a prospect of cure. All will re-member the case of the Sergeant, who used at midnight to leave his quarters, and dig up bodies member the case of the Sergeant, who used at midnight to leave his quarters, and dig up bodies in Pere le Chase, which he subsequently devoured. The unfortunate man is now cured, and is but thirty-two years of age. He preserves of the episodes of his past life only a confused memory, like the recoilection of a painful dream. In other days science feared to approach these sufferers.

In 1777, a young man named Ferrage, under the influence of this malady, suddenly left his companions and surrendered himself up to this horrible propensity. He selected, as his retreat, a cavern near the ton of one of the mountreat, a cavern near the top of one of the moun-tains of Aure, whence he used to descend, like a beast of prey, into the champague country, killing all the women; he could eat nothing killing all the women; he could eat nothing else, and was constantly seen to gaze, as if in wait for an opportunity to seize his prey. He never went abroad vithout a double barrel gun, a belt full of pistols and a dagger. So great was the terror that he inspired, that he used frequently to come into towns for food or ammunition without any molestation.

A peasant, whom he suspected of a-design upon him, had his house burned over his head. He used to decoy all muleteers he chanced to discover in the woods to his den, where they were uniformly murdered. A large reward was offered for his capture in vain, until a bold peasant insinuated himself into his confidence and captured him. This beast of prey, for such he was, was executed on the 12th of December, 1792. He was broken alive on the wheel. For four years he had lived exclusive by as a capuibal.

MUTILATED BANK BILLS .- A case of som MUTILATED BANK BILLS.—A case of some interest was tried in the Circuit Court of Mobile a few days since. It was brought by A. W. Marsh, to recover from the Bank of Mobile the value of one of its $20 mutilated bills, which had come into the possession of Mr. Marsh in the regular course of his business. The bill was composed of two parts, pasted together, which were less in length by seven-eighths than the original. The name of the Cashier, was in full on one part of the bill, and the name of the President, with the exception of his initials, on the other part. It was conceded that the owner received it in due course of trade, and when exto be understood as underrating that route.—On the contrary, I believe, that should the road ever be constructed—and I do not entertain the shadow of a doubt of its speedy completion, the advantages springing from it will be greater by far, than the most enthusiastic can now contemplate. he following are his scale of prices:

J. S. SILVER -Dear Sir: We have used your **Plastic Paints** for more than a year, and for painting Bridges, Depots, &c., &c., we have found it equal to any Paint we have used; in fact, we now give it a preference over all others we have tried for such purposes.

Yours, respectfully.

JOHN TUCKER, President. The above is but one of the many certificater we have received from the Gentlemen of ous city, who have used Silver's Mineral Paints. Colors.-We have seven different colors, viz three browns, two chocolates, black and yel-low, and by a combination, make every variety and shade of color.

Iron.—To iron, they furnish a perfect protection against rust, for they contain no metal, which, like white lead, acts destructively on the iron. In fact, this paint makes iron don ly valuable for building purposes.

Brick Work.—They give to house walls a much heavier coating than any other paints, and if sanding is required, nothing holds so firmly or finishes so well with it. Old Roofs.-Give us a roof ever so old and leaky, Silver's Mineral Paints will make it cheaply new, and more enduring than it ever

Ships using this extraordinary mineral as we prepare it for them will be proof against the ac-tion of hot suns, worms, and salt water. DIRECTIONS .-- Use Linseed Oil, mix as thick as you can, and use as other paints.

These paints need but little dryer, and for priming and second coating in all household work, they will be found far cheaper and more durable than lead. Dealers and Consumers can procure this Pain

CRAWFORD, MILLS & CO. Farnam's Hydraulic Force-Pump AND FIRE ENGINE.

THE SIMPLE ARRANGEMENT, AND the great power and ease with which this Pump works, have given it a decided preference over any thing of the kind now in use in the United States. United States; and in all places where it has been introduced, it is superseding the old method of raising water. The advantages are:

1st. The little difficulty in getting at the valves for repair. All that is required to repair them is a knife, screw-driver and leather.

2d. It keeps a constant stream in motion.

3d. Water may be drawn from cisterns, wells, springs, &c., and forced to any height.

4th. It may be used in all cases for a Fire Engine, as the smallest Pump will throw water to the top of a threastory building 5th. The price is less than that of any other Pump that will perform the same amount of

6th. The arrangement of the whole is so simple that it is less liable to get out of order and will keep in repair longer than any other Pump. It is better calculated for situations where mechanical skill is not readily at comwhere mechanical skill is not readily at command, and where the most perfect and efficient machine is required. It is well calculated for Factories, Mines, Paper Mills, Tanneries, Rail

Roads, &c.
Iron Works and Manufacturing establishments, of all kinds, find them the best article of the kind in use, for raising water and protect-ing buildings against fire. For Livery Stables, Dwellings, &c., nothing can be found to equal them. If hose be connected, water can be con-veyed to Bath Rooms, Stables, and any place where water is required.

The right for the sale of this Pump in the Districts of Chester and Union, has been purchased by Thomas DeGraffenreid, who is now prepared to supply those who may desire to have them. He has now on hand a supply, manufactured for him expressly, by G. B. Far-nam of New York, and warranted to perform as Those who may wish to see one in operation can be gratified at any time by calling on the subscriber.

Physicians prescribe Dr. Roger's Liverwort and Tar in the last stages and most hopeless cases of Corsumption, after all other medicines have failed, as it has proved itself to be the most extraordinary medical aid in curing that disease. Now this medicine is as valuable in the incipient stages, such as Cough, Colds, &c., &c., when the Lungs are not too far gone before ulceration takes place. It is seldom or ever known to fail in breaking up the most distressing Cough or Cold, in a few hours time, if the directions are strictly followed. From the Soil of the South. A TREATISE ON THE GULTURE

BY JAMES M. CHAMBERS.

For this erep, I lay it down as indisper ably necessary, that the earth should be of preparation may vary with the nature of the soil. The time of planting, in this climate, where the summers are hot and long, and droughts frequent should be just as early as may be practicable, to escape the spring and the culture should be early and nity to the small fibrous roots, which are so moisture when dry and to absorb excess of

Next, I would secure deep and thorough breaking of the earth immediately about where the young roots first begin to spread, by seem and close listing with some long plow, nothing in use among us is better for this operation than a well made Scooter. lone, the opening furrow, checking This done, the opening furrow, checking across the list, in which to drop the seed, should be deep, and so wide as to stand well free from clods or turf; and the seed corn being dropped in the check, then cover will the boo, by drawing a small portion of loose carth upon the seed which should, when planted, not have more than a depth of one int a half or two inches of earth upon it. I would put in three or four grains, where only the young corn was up, with about four blades, the first working should be given. My prosess would be to plow with a long Scooter or Coulter, running as near the corn as posthe whole middle deep, close and thorough, leaving the whole bed soft and well pulverized. The hoes should follow close after the cleaning the surface about the stalk. eaving no young grass or weeds, and return-ing snough soft earth to cover the roots of he corn a little deeper than they were before; and at this hoeing, I should thin out, ordinarily, all except the one stalk which was to be left to make the crop. In about twenty nall mould board ought to be attached to each case. the blow, running next to the corn, so as to age a greater depth of earth on the roots, he roots are spreading rapidly and widely. trees. Care should be taken at this workduty, but little will remain for the hoes to do. The corn will now be sufficiently large to bear the dirt, and a good plowman with a well fixed plow, will throw the soft earth around the root of the stalk, covering up most of the grass, which as yet must be very small and young, and sufficiently hilling the corn, leaving the work nearly complete, without the aid of the hoe. In these workings, I would greatly prefer that the earth should be in a moist state, but regard it unat most, to wait for just such seasons as regard the seasons too much, but move directly and energetically forward, leaving the results to be controlled by Him who " giveth the early and the latter rain."

About three weeks after this working, the third and last should be given. The operation of laying by corn is one requiring more discretion and judgment, usually, than any other, and much after all must be left to the indgment of the planter, dependent upon the eircumstance of the case. It would sometimes happen that it had been dry, and every thing standing as when left; at another time, hard rains will have ensued, and all the former plowing have been undone, the land washed and settled hard and close again; What to do, and how to do, must be determined very much by the necessity and circumstances of the case. If the seasons had been ordinary, plow shallow and not very close; leave the surface of the bed oth and soft, without having torn the roots of the corn much.

The weather is now hot, and the roots of the corn matted and spread thick through all the earth from row to row. The stalk needs all the nourishment and support which the roots can give, and it is at great hazard now to cut off these supplies. Hence the necessity of of those early, rapid and thorough workings, which I have recommended, before the roots he died during a tight rope performance.

have so spread out; before the weather has e so hot; and before the stalk, now sappy, needs so much support. As I have previously remarked, I now repeat, this crop must be worked rapidly and thoroughly. I will not do to let the young corn stop growing, or the stalk ever become hard. It must be pushed from the beginning, and if ample iustice has not been done in the earlier workings, it is in vain to hope by later workings, to reclaim and make good a corn crop which en deep and thoroughly. The process has been permitted to suffer in the earlier part of the season. My motto is, begin early, work often, and lay by soon. The roots of corn grow up upon the stalk, and are all the while seeking the surface-hence the necessity of adding more earth. At the last working, if I wanted to make rapid. First, then, I say, the earth is to be presented by deep, close and thorough plowing. This is necessary, to give an opportuand draw some more earth around the root numerous with this plant, to shoot out and of the corn, giving greater protection against rate the earth easily, to retain proper the scorching heat of the sun, and retaining moisture longer about the root. My opinion is, if proper attention has been given in throw. ing dirt to the stalk in former workings, that not a great deal remains to be done in that way at the laying by.

It remains now for something to be said about distances of rows, number of stalks, hill and drill corn, &c. Taking the common lands of our country for my basis, and it is perhaps best, in a treatise of this sort. to select a medium grade. I would give my preference to hill corn, rather than drilled, and to one stalk in preference to two, in the hill. I would have the hills four and a half feet one way and three and a half the other. and leave one stalk in each hill. The first plowing should be the narrow way, the two last the wide way of the rows. My objection ne was to stand, esteeming it much better to drill corn, is founded mainly in the difficulty in getting the stand uniform in the distance of the stalks from each other, and I think it requires a little more labor in its cul- shape." tivaton. My objections to the two stalks in the hill are, that the one stalk is better fed and sustained when standing alone, than two in the operation of borrowing and lending, would be thrown together to seek their supplies from the same space of earth; that con. sequently more vigor will be imparted to one than could be to the two; that in time of drought the two will suffer more than the one; er to take charge of the paper. Here was that the two stalked corn cannot be so con- a dilemma! At last a bright idea struck veniently worked either with the plow or John: "You have de money to pay, Peter; hoe, and will not produce such large ears. so you must take dis paper, so as you can I admitthat there may be frequently, perhaps see as you haf to pay it." This was conclugenerally more in number, but the ears of sive; the common sense of the thing was unthe one stalk will be uniformly larger, the answerable; and Peter pocketed the money days, the plows should return again. is made out to suit the medium average mark: " Now, John, you must take de note, thereby securing moisture and protection lands of the country. In the close, I would so as you can see the money haf been paid!" from the hot sun. Now is the time, when remark that I have written for practical men, It strikes us that this incident is only sehave presented facts, rather than scientific seeking nourishment and moisture in the soft | theories, and if there is any merit in my | weighing, passing receipts, and mulcting the and well plowed soil. At this working, care thoughts, the plan is easy of comprehension constable in the amount of costs, as record- lustration, that a man should come into this should be taken, that when the work is done, and adoption by the great body of planters. ed by the sage historian of Manahatta. each furrow should well fill up its predeces. In the selection of seed, I have only to add tor, so that every inch of earth should be that I like that corn which has least cob and broken, and no furrows in the bed should be most grain, and would select those ears seen standing open to expose the roots as which have deep, long grains. I have no they shoot across, but all should lie smooth | doubt that much improvement may be made and soft. At this working, the hoes should by a judicious selection of the seed for corn also follow, cleaning any hills which the plow planting; by selecting from the field those should have slighted, straightening up the ears where two may be found on the same bent stalks, pulling out any surplus stalks or stalk, and where the ears are large, well suckers, and cleaning round the stumps and matured, and well filled. The benefit of this plan has been very fully demonstrated. It ing to leave no grass or weeds near the stalk. will be found, however, to be true, that all If the plows have faithfully performed their most in the same proportion as the number of ears are multiplied their size will be diminished. Between these two extremes will therefore be found the best seed, and the best guide for its selection.

As to the varieties of corn cultivated in this country, my preference is for that which seems to have fallen in as a sort of medium betwixt the old gourd seed and the flint, pos sessing the peculiar qualities of neither, but a sort of combination of both.

I might enlarge this treaties by speaking safe to delay the work, more than a few days of the kinds and methods of manurning, but as that properly constitutes a separate branch would be preferred. As a general rule, in and our society have called for a separate the cultivation of the crop, it is not best to treatise on the application of manures, I shall not trespass upon your patience by ad-

THE DUTCHMEN AND THE NOTE.

If the following amusing circumstance had been narrated in the pages of the veracious historian, Diedrich Knickerbocker, it would have been set down to the credit of a fertile fancy on the part of that illustrious historian, rather than believed as a fact. But the occurrence here detailed is a veritable one, and York, Pennsylvania. It is a forcible illustration of that undoubted and undoubting Dutch honesty, which made New Amsterdam so famous in the olden time:

It seems from the record, that there were two early German settlers, in the western part of the county, whose names were Peer - and John - Peter had increased the size of his farm, by annexing to t a small tract of land adjoining, and he lacked about a hundred dollars of the sum which it was necessary to pay for his new equisition. He called upon his neighbor John, to borrow the amount. John consented at once, and going into another room, he brought out an old bread basket, and counted down the desired number of dollars; and then the two sat down to two large earthern nugs of cider and as many pipes of tobacco. After smoking over the matter for a while, it occurred to Peter that in similar transactions he had seen or heard of something like a note passing between the borrower and lender, and he suggested as much to John. The lender assented to the propriety of such a course; paper, pen, and ink, were produced, and between the two a document was concocted, stating that John had loaned Peter one hundred dollars, which Peter would repay to John in "tree mont's." This Peter signed; and thus far the two financiers made the thing "all regular and ship-

But at this point a difficulty presented it self. They both knew that notes were made which they had witnessed but neither of them had observed what disposition was made of the document: neither could tell whether it was for the borrower or the lend-

Three months passed over; and punctually to the day appeared Peter, and paid over the promised sum to John. This being row also to be well broke and pulverized. The following anecdote of a legal gentle man of Missouri, was compiled many years ago from a newspaper of that State. There a very racy freshness about it that is quite lelightful:

Being once opposed to Mr. Slately a member of Congress, he remarked as follows to a jury, upon some point of disagreement between them .

"Here my brother S --- and I differ ma terially. Now this, after all, is very natural. Men seldom see things in the same light: and they may disagree in opinion upon the simplest principles of the law, and that very honestly; while, at the same time, neither, perhaps, can perceive any earthly reason why they look at different sides of the subject, and do not view it in all its bearing.

" Now let us suppose, for the sake of il court-room, and assert that my brother (here he laid his hand very familiarly upon the large "chuckle head" of The London Quarterly Review, (Conservative his opponent,) "is a squash! ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER

THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, OR GASTRIC JUICE,

GASTRIO JUICE,

Prepared from RENNET, or the fourth'S TOMACH OF THE OX, after directions of BARON LIEFIGHT ON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DY-PEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION, and DEBILITY, curring after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gustric Juice.

OF Half a tempoontul of PRESIN, infused in water, will digest or dissolve. Five Founds of Roast Beef in About two Hours, out of the stomach.

PEPSIN is the chief element, or Great Digesting Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvert of THE FOOD, the PURIFYING. PRESERVIC, and STIMULATING Agent of the Stomach and Intestines: It is extrasted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, hun forming an ARTIFICIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its 'h missal rowers, and furnishing a COMPLETE and PERFECT SUBSTITUTE for it. By the aid of this preparation, the pains and evils of INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA are removed, just as they would be by a healthy Stomach It is doing wonders for DYSPEPIIC CONSUMPTION, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The Scientific Evidence upon which it is hased, is in the highest degree CURIOUS and REMARKABLE.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE! BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Biration Fluid, analo, our to the Crastic Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Monnies of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meet and eggs. will be sortenance, CHANGED, AND DIGENTED, LIST IN THE SAME MANNER AS THEY WOULD BE IN THE HU-

Jew David's Hebrew Plaster.

THE great remedy for Rheumatism, Gout. Pais in the Side, Hip. Back, Limbs and Joints; Scrofola, King's Evil, White Swellings, Hard Tumors, Stiff Joints, and all fixed pains whatever. Where this Plas-ter is applied Pain cannot exist. These Plaster-possess the advantages of being put up in air-tight boxes; hence they retain their fall vir-tues in all climates.

ues in all climates.

This celebrated Pain Extractor has been so exterively used by Physicians and the people in generated in this country and Europe, that it is almost neces to say any thing about it. Yet there may be somethous and in need of its healing powers who has not yet tried it. For their sakes we will simply st what it has done in thousands of cases, and what it will do for them when tried.

A VOICE FROM GEORGIA Read the following testimony from a Physician.

GENTLEMEN - Your Hebrew Pluster has cured me of pains of which I have suffered for twelve years past.—

During this period I labored under an afficient of my loins and side, and tried many remedies that my own meilional experience suggested, but without obtaining relief. At length I used your Plaster, and am now by its good effects entirely cured. I will recommend the Jew Lavid or Hebrew Plaster to all who are suffering. from contraction of the muscles, or permanent pains in the side or back.

The people of Georgia have but to become acquainted with its virtues when they will re-out to its uss.

Yours, truly, M. W. WALKER, M. D. Forsythe, Monroe County, Ga.

JEW DAVID'S OR HEBREW PLASTER IN NORTH CAROLINA. NORTH CAROLINA.

Masses. Scover & Mano: I have been troubled with the chronic rheumatism for the last twelve years. On the let of July, 1849, I was so bad that I could not turn myself in hed, and the pain se sevene that I had not slept a wink for six days. At this time my attending physician pre-eribed the "Hebrew Phister," and is acted like a chairm; the pain left me, and I alept more than half of the night, and in three days I was able to ride out. I consider the "Hebrew Plaster," the best remedy for all sorte of pains, now in use.

Tallow! 300 Pounds choice Tallow, just received for sale by CRAWFORD, MILLS & CO.

Farnam's Hydraulic Force-Pump AND FIRE ENGINE.

THE SIMPLE ARRANGEMENT, AND the great power and ease with which this Pump works, have given it a decided preference over any thing of the kind now in use in the United States; and in all places where it has been introduced, it is superseding the old method of raising water.

thod of raising water.

The advantages are:
1st. The little difficulty in getting at the valves for repair. All that is required to repair them is a knife, screw-driver and leather.
2d. It keeps a constant stream in motion. 3d. Water may be drawn from cisterns wells, springs, &c., and forced to any height.

4th. It may be used in all cases for a Fire Engine, as the smallest Pump will throw water to the top of a three-story building
5th. The price is less than that of any other Pump that will perform the same amount of

6th. The arrangement of the whole is so simple that it is less liable to get out of order and will keep in repair longer than any other Pump. It is better calculated for situations where mechanical skill is not readily at com-mand, and where the most perfect and efficient machine is required. It is well calculated for Factories, Mines, Paper Mills, Tanncries, Rail

Roads, &c.
Iron Works and Manufacturing establishments, of all kinds, find them the best article of the kind in use, for raising water and protect-ing buildings against fire. For Livery Stables, Dwellings, &c., nothing can be found to equal them. If hose be connected, water can be con-veyed to Bath Rooms, Stables, and any place where water is required.

The right for the sale of this Pump in the

Dr. J. S. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN, THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, OF GASTRIC JUICE, Prepared from RENNET, or the FOURTH STOMACH OF THE OX, after directions of BARON LLEBIG, the great Physical Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia. This is truly a wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION and DEBILITY, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agont, the GASTRIC JUICE. Pamphlets, containing Scientific evidence of its value, furnished by agents gratis. See notice among the medical advertisements.

Physicians prescribe Dr. Roger's Liverwort and Tar in the last stages and most hopeless cases of Corsumption, after all other medicines have failed, as it has proved itself to be the most extraordinary medical aid in curing that disease. Now this medicine is as valuable in the incipient stages, such as Cough, Colds, &c., &c., when the Lungs are not too far gone before ulceration takes place. It is seldom or ever known to fail in breaking up the most distressing Cough or Cold, in a few hours time, if the directions are strictly followed. The genuine Dr. Rogers' Liverwort and Tar, which makes so many wonderful cures, can be obtained at J. A. REEDY'S,
